DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's amendment filed on November 20, 2006 has been entered. No claims have been amended. Claims 1-26 have been cancelled. Claims 27-49 have been added. Claims 27-49 are now pending in this application, with claims 27, 33, 40, and 46 being independent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 27, 30-33, 36, 39-41, 43, 44, and 46-49 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Beyda et al (US 6,404,873).

3. In regards to claims 27, 32, 33, 36, 39-41, 43, 44, 46, 48, and 49, Beyda discloses a system, mixer, method, and apparatus comprising: a first sub-conference node; a second sub-conference node; a storage device comprising a party information table (See Fig. 2 and conference call subsystem 26); a mixing controller (See Fig. 3 and multipoint control unit (MCU) 12); a mixer (See Fig. 2 and data mixer 34), to select at least a first portion of conference information and a second portion of conference information received from the first sub-conference node and the second sub-conference node based on the party information table and the mixing controller, and to transmit the first portion of information to the first sub-conference node at a first time slot and to transmit the second portion of information to the second sub-conference at a second time slot (See col. 3 lines 27-37, col. 4-5 lines 66-29, col. 6 lines 14-34, and col. 7 lines 6-24).

4. In regards to claim 30, Beyda discloses the system, wherein the first portion of information is to be selected by a processor based on an attribute received from the first sub-conference node (See col. 7 lines 6-24).

5. In regards to claims 31 and 47, Beyda discloses the system and method, wherein the first portion of information is to be modified by the processor and the second portion of information is to be unmodified based on a change in the attribute received from the first sub-conference node (See col. 2-3 lines 55-15).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 28, 29, 34, 35, 37, 38, 42, and 45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Beyda et al (US 6,404,873), in view of Su et al (US 6,463,414).

7. In regards to claims 28, 29, 34, and 35, Beyda discloses all of claims 28, 29, 34, and 35 limitations, except a voice activity detector to determine if the first sub-conference node or the second sub-conference node is speaking; wherein the results of the voice activity detector are received at the mixing controller, and wherein the mixing controller transfers the results to the mixer. Su, however, does disclose monitoring speech activity of the participants in the first group (See col. 7 lines 45-53), and wherein the results are transferred to the mixer (See col. 4-5 lines 62-11). Therefore, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to incorporate these features within the system, as a way of providing a conference bridge or transcoder configured to intelligently handle multiple speech channels in the context of a packet network, wherein the various speech channels may adhere to a variety of speech encoding standards.

8. In regards to claim 42, Beyda discloses all of claim 42 limitations, except the method, wherein modifying the first sub-conference includes modifying the audio volume at the first sub-conference without modifying the audio volume of the second sub-conference. Su, however, does disclose wherein modifying the first sub-conference (e.g., first participant) includes modifying the audio volume at the first sub-conference without modifying the audio volume of the second sub-conference (e.g., second participant) (See col. 8 lines 52-65 and col. 9 lines 10-14).

9. In regards to claims 37, 38, and 45, Beyda discloses all of claims 37, 38, and 45 limitations, however, Beyda does not specifically disclose what the storage device is defined as. However, it is well known in the art for a storage device, memory, etc., to be a random access memory or a magnetic disk. Therefore, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to incorporate these features within the system, as a way of storing data/information.

Response to Arguments

10. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 27-49 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
